8. Fiscal implications:

Administrative Costs

The Department of Taxation considers implementation of this bill as routine, and does not require additional funding.

Revenue Impact

This bill would have an unknown negative General Fund revenue impact beginning in Fiscal Year 2023. It is uncertain to what extent eligible teachers would claim this deduction. The amount of eligible expenses actually paid or incurred by such teachers is unknown. In addition, it is uncertain to what extent teachers would be ineligible by virtue of having relevant expenses reimbursed or claiming such expenses as a federal income tax deduction. According to data from the Virginia Department of Education, there were 104,903 primary and secondary public school teachers as of Fiscal Year 2020. If each of these teachers is eligible for the deduction that this bill would provide and claims the maximum of $500, the negative revenue impact of this bill would be approximately $2.8 million per fiscal year.

Federal Income Tax Preferences for Educators

For federal income tax purposes, an eligible educator may deduct up to $250 of any unreimbursed qualified expenses (otherwise deductible as a trade or business expense). If the taxpayers are married filing jointly and both of them are eligible educators, they may deduct up to $500, but not more than $250 each. The educator expense deduction may be claimed above-the-line and therefore can be claimed by educators who claim the standard deduction or elect to claim their itemized deductions. “Qualified expenses” are amounts paid or incurred for books, supplies, computer equipment (including related software and services), other equipment, and supplementary materials used in the classroom. For courses in health and physical education, expenses for supplies are qualified expenses only if related to athletics. This deduction is for expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year.

An “eligible educator” is, with respect to any taxable year, an individual who is a kindergarten through grade 12 teacher, instructor, counselor, principal, or aide in a school for at least 900 hours during a school year.

Qualified expenses are deductible only to the extent the amount of such expenses exceed the following amounts for the taxable year:

- The interest on qualified U.S. savings bonds that was excluded from income because the taxpayer paid qualified higher education expenses;
- Any distribution from a qualified tuition program that was excluded from income;
- Any tax-free withdrawals from the taxpayer’s Coverdell education savings accounts; and
- Certain reimbursed expenses.

Before Taxable Year 2018, an educator who had unreimbursed educator expenses in excess of $250 and who itemized his or her deductions was able to claim such expenses as part of his or her federal miscellaneous itemized deductions. However, such expenses were only deductible if, and to the extent, that the educator’s total miscellaneous itemized deductions (including his unreimbursed expenses for school supplies) exceeded two percent of his or her adjusted gross income. The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act repealed miscellaneous itemized deductions beginning with Taxable Year 2018. The repeal of miscellaneous itemized deductions is currently scheduled to sunset after December 31, 2025.

Proposed Legislation

This bill would provide an individual income tax deduction of up to $500 for the amount actually paid for teaching materials purchased by a teacher and used in teaching Virginia public primary or secondary school students. The deduction would not be allowed to the extent qualifying purchases were reimbursed or claimed as a deduction on the teacher's federal income tax return.

This bill would be effective for taxable years beginning on and after January 1, 2022.

Similar Legislation

House Bill 103 would provide an individual income tax deduction of up to $500 for the amount actually paid or incurred for eligible educator qualifying expenses.
